	"Rich black licorice and white pepper aromas. A syrupy entry leads to a moderately sweet medium-full body with aniseed and hot white pepper flavors. Finishes with a licorice, pepper, and chalk fade and tongue numbing warmth. Nice pure flavor and peppery intensity will impress in shots or cut through cocktails." - Reviewed by: Beverage Testing Institute

	"The first aromatic blast is seductively anise-like, then it mellows, turning softer, more herbal, and plumper. At palate entry the intensely bitter taste of anise both enlivens and cleanses the palate; at midpalate the pleasant sting of alcohol and the zest of rooty/woodsy botanicals make for memorable imbibing. Finishes elegant and smooth." 90-95 pts. - Reviewed by: The Wine Enthusiast
