	"One thing you can always expect from a Guigal wine is intense fruit. The 2010 Cotes-du-Rhone, a mostly-syrah wine blended with grenache and a touch of mourvedre, offers assertive dark berry and floral elements and a suave spiciness that gives it uncommon complexity for a wine at this price. Believe it or not, this bottling ages very well, as recent bottles of the 1998(!) have proven to me." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 90pts
