"The 2011 Almirez…comes from vineyards in Valdefinjas and Toro from vines between 15 and 65 years in age. The “crazy” thermal jumps meant there was much more freshness in this particular wine than any other vintage. It was matured in 30% in new French oak and 70% one year old. It has a deep, introspective bouquet of fresh blackberry and raspberry leaf that opens beautifully with aeration. The oak is finely synched with the fruit here. The palate is succulent and fleshy on the entry, with crisp acidity and persuasive poise and minerality on the finely tuned finish. It is almost the antithesis of cliched Toro being 'heavy' or 'alcoholic.' Superb!" - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 91 to 93pts

321955	2006 Numanthia Termanthia	$190.00	N/A	N/A

"A powerful wine with modern structure and distinctive character. This red is so thick and rich it's almost oily in texture, with exotic flavors of black fruit, game, dried herb and hoisin. Muscular tannins keep this structured, but give way to floral and graphite notes on the finish." - Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 95pts

33180	2007 Numanthia Termanthia	$160.00	N/A	N/A

"Glass-staining purple. Exotic, pungent scents of cherry-cola, potpourri and white pepper, plus a sexy note of sandalwood. Very fresh in the mouth, with intense, floral-accented black raspberry and bitter cherry flavors that become sweeter and spicier with aeration. Blends vivacity and power smoothly, finishing with nervy mineral cut and a lingering note of spicecake." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 94pts

58940	2011 Romanico	$14.99	N/A	N/A

"Bright purple. Intense dark berry aromas are complemented by potpourri, cola and vanillin oak. Broad, palate-coating blackberry and blueberry flavors become livelier with air and show an energetic spiciness. Finishes with very good clarity and juicy persistence, the cola and spice notes repeating." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 91pts
