	"This bottling is designed to show off the inherent power that younger vines display in the Ribbon Ridge Appellation. This bottling is very dark in fruit while pulling towards a gravelly aspect and showing thick, pliable tannins on the finish. The vintage gives the overall package a much plusher tone than one would expect. This is a much more drinkable-at-a-younger-age wine than normal." - Reviewed by: Producer

	"We had many questions before the 2011 harvest, but in barrel, these wines have been a pleasure. Delicious, well-structured, well-balanced. On the nose and on the palate, it is very much a classic expression of our Dundee Hills property, though with perhaps a touch more black cherry and black fruits than usual. As with 2010, the acidity is bright, and overall there is nice structure and very good length.
