During barrel ageing, I played with creating more complexity in each wine by blending small amounts of each into the other, and as a lark experimented with a total blend of the Cabernet and Merlot with a single barrel of Petite Sirah added. The total blend was markedly superior to any other cepage. It was a result of what ecologists call 'emergent properties', characteristics that emerge in a complex milieu that were previously unobserved in the independent parts of the total. 53301	2010 Chateau Rollan de By Kosher	$44.99	N/A	N/A
	"Consistently better than its humble appellation, this excellent wine from proprietor Jean Guyon offers up plenty of black currant fruit intermixed with cedar wood, licorice and incense in a medium to full-bodied, surprisingly concentrated and expansive style that should drink nicely for a minimum of a decade or more. There’s no need for patience with this sleeper of the vintage, given the sweetness of its tannins, attractive glycerin and fruit levels." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 90pts

	"As tends to be the case, this is tighter, more focused, more powerful and a bit harder edged than the Petit Castel – not surprising considering that this is Cabernet-dominated and the Petit Castel is Merlot-dominated – but they still have similar styles. This is a moderately earthy wine this year – less earthy than the 2009 Petit Castel, though – with seductive texture and focus." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 92pts

	"The 2009 Gewurztraminer Reserve "Late Harvest Cluster Select" is quite sweet, laced with apricot and peach notes, and lots of sugar. With a little air, there was finally a little acidity noticeable, but the wine did flatten pretty fast and thin. This is hard to resist on some levels, but it could use a bit more focus and penetration. While these always have the potential to age, considering what they are and what they are intended to be, I like to be conservative in drinking windows as I find they often show best young." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 88pts
