	"The 2012 Fleurie La Reserve sees 20 to 30% of the crop raised in used oak. It offers light red currant aromas on the nose, which is just a little one-dimensional at the moment. The palate is clean, well-defined and quite juicy for the vintage, although it never really takes off on the finish like you would hope. Easy-drinking pleasure." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 87pts

66175	2012 Terres Dorees Beaujolais l'Ancien Vieilles Vignes	$16.99	N/A	N/A
	"Made from Jean-Paul's oldest vines, which have fewer berries, smaller grapes, a tighter bunch, and a more concentrated flavor. He is able to harvest the grapes later because there is far less risk of rot, owing to the small bunches. The grapes are harvested late with a high natural sugar level. The wine is vinified using traditional Burgundy techniques. It is a noble Beaujolais with great structure (from the old vines used to make this wine), elegance and enormous appeal, but at a price that is very accessible." - Reviewed by: Producer

	"Forget any prejudice about wimpy Beaujolais. This macho wine is loaded. It is also super complex: mainly it smells of real, live red fruits, especially freshly crushed strawberries." - Reviewed by: Producer
68321	2012 Jacky Janodet Les Fines Graves Moulin a Vent	$19.99	N/A	N/A
	"Deep, brooding and quite Burgundian in nature, the Domaine des Fines Graves Moulin a Vent is one of the most masculine and ageworthy of all Beaujolais wines. In typical Moulin-à-Vent fashion, Janodet's wines are rich, concentrated and brooding, requiring some coaxing before the lush, velvet deep cherry and kirsch flavors." - Reviewed by: Producer
55365	2011 Chateau Grange Cochard Morgon Vieilles Vignes	$20.99	N/A	N/A
	"Delivers floral and licorice overtones as well as toasty, nutty notes that point to the positive influence of ripe stems. There are even carob and chocolate notes, yet for all of their low tones, the fruit here is of bright and tart-edged dark berries, and a saline streak serves to engage the salivary glands. This interactively multi-dimensional cuvee should be worth following at least through 2015." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 90pts

69618	2011 Michel Tete Domaine du Clos du Fief Julienas	$18.99	N/A	N/A
	"Brilliant purple. Smoky cherry and dark berry aromas are complemented by suggestions of violet, pipe tobacco and minerals. Sappy and broad on entry, then firmer in the mid-palate, offering chewy blackberry and bitter cherry flavors and a hint of licorice. Closes with dusty tannins and a kick of tangy acidity, leaving a subtle floral note behind." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 90pts

72270	2013 Domaine de Pavillon de Chavannes Cote du Brouilly Cuvee des Ambassades	$19.99	N/A	N/A

"Clear and glistening, the Côte de Brouilly of the Domain releases with air contact subtle red fruit perfumes on which it has been working during its sleeping year. Inside the mouth, it develops its tender and delicate aromas to leave to the palate a keen and constant souvenir of Beaujolais delicacy. The strength of its temper resides in its balance that shows its ability to bring lightness and firmness at the same time. At its second year, the Côte de Brouilly of the Domain gains in firmness. It continues to develop itself all through the following years, by performing its temper and its personality. Yet, it remains a very subtle a delicate wine, somehow surprising when consumed during the first year." - Reviewed by: Producer
