	"The 2011 Graham's comes from the five quintas that have been the source for many years (Malvedos, Tua, Vila Velha, das Lages and Vale de Malhadas). It represents a selection of the 131 pipes from a total production of 1,454 and is a blend of 40% Touriga Nacional, 31% Touriga Franca, 6% Sousao and 23% mixture of very old vines. It has a more "serious" bouquet compared to the Dow, with beguiling scents of blackberry, wild hedgerow, tobacco and cloves. Straight-laced, very well-defined and compelling, the palate is medium-bodied with very fine tannins and supremely well-judged acidity. It is utterly harmonious, with a pure core of ripe black cherries, damson, marmalade, clove and spices, and the finish lingers long in the mouth. The separation of "The Stone Terraces" vines certainly does not appear to have detracted from a great Graham's." 	"Wonderfully fresh, sweet and charming on opening, this becomes a surprisingly focused LBV, even though it is easy to drink and does well as a pop 'n' pour. It has rather nice, underlying structure. The tannins are ripe, but there are some, and it has the grip and concentration of flavors on the finish to be interesting as well as tasty. It becomes more brooding and quite drier with aeration. Overall, the mid-palate concentration is average for its type and there is little in the way of complexity at its young age—and it is not likely designed to age, even if can to some degree, which tends to give wines like this a ceiling. This is still overall a very nice performance in this big vintage. It is delicious, but also well balanced and intriguing. Returning after one 45 minutes that nose has shut up shop. The palate is sweet and sensual on the entry, plush and opulent, with copious black cherries, boysenberry and cassis fruit, curiously more reminiscent of Fonseca! It just glides across the palate with a mouth-coating, glycerine-tinged finish that has a wonderful lightness of touch, demonstrating how Vintage Port is so much more accessible in its youth nowadays. 68591	Valdespino Inocente Fino	$11.99	N/A	N/A
	"The NV Fino Inocente must be one of the few wines in Jerez that is still fermented in 600-liter American oak botas, which is an incredible amount of work compared with fermenting tens of thousands of kilos of grapes (or even more) in a big stainless steel tank. This method was the norm of yesteryear, but is so labor intense that it was discontinued in most wineries, and gives a big diversity of wines, as each barrel has its own character, which contributes to the complexity of the blend. Furthermore, the bottled wine is on average 8 to 10 years old. One other thing that makes it apart from other Finos is that the grapes are exclusively from the high part of the Macharnudo vineyard, so this is a single-vineyard Fino. The nose is very complex, showing the effect of the long lees contact: chalk, dried hay, aromatic herbs and salty almonds. The palate is full, but at the same time elegant and balanced, powerful and fine, with the texture of a Meursault rather than a Puligny. A very complex wine, that manages to be both powerful and elegant. Inocente is great value for money." Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 94 pts - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 94pts

	"A tawny red with a topaz meniscus. The first aroma gives the impression of buoyancy and develops into a great smoothness acquired from having been matured in wood. In the mouth, it feels light, warm and very soft as a result of its aging. This "adolescent" is a mature and fruity Port with a complex and delicate character. Its finish is perfectly balanced, giving it a flavor some delicateness."

	"The Fonseca 2009 has a very sweet, typically opulent bouquet of black plum, blackberry, chimney soot and a touch of pencil shavings that is very complex and alluring. The palate is full-bodied with powerful ripe blackberry, allspice, clove and balsamic notes, a roiling, powerful, assertive Fonseca with a sweet, dark chocolate-tinged finish that grips the mouth, but it needs two decades to mellow and demonstrate the finesse to balance the intensity. 	"The one thing I thought I'd never see was a bottle of NV Manzanilla La Guita en Rama, an 'en rama' bottling from October 2015. The wine is exclusively from Sanlúcar, mainly from the Pago de Miraflores vineyard. If the regular bottling has seen a prodigious improvement since it was purchased from the Estévez family, the unfiltered version is simply phenomenal. I encountered a first bottle in the north of Spain and I was gobsmacked. The character of brine, green olives and mustard seeds is all there in an amplified way. The palate is medium bodied, as 'flor' eats glycerin and the wine is always sharper, always very dry and intense. This is a selection of 'botas' from centenary 'soleras' in their bodegas Misericordia and Carretera de Jerez, averaging 4.5 years of age. The wine is unfiltered and not stabilized, and only a light filtration is applied to avoid particles floating in the wine. Beautifully focused, a bit tight and drying on the finish, this has fine mid-palate concentration, a crisp, transparent demeanor and good intensity of flavor. It should improve notably with a few years in the cellar, but it is quite approachable. It looks likely to have a long life ahead. I kept going back and forth between this and Sogrape's other 2010 LBVs this issue, but the truth is that they all have bragging rights--and they kept changing every day. The answer might have been slightly different--slightly--depending on when I stopped. The wine is a lot better than that, happily. This was the first release of this bottling with this presentation. A bit hard and a little harsh on the end, it evolves a bit in the glass and then shows off its best points--the amazing structure, the precision and focus. There still seemed to be just a touch of alcohol on the finish, a little too much brandy. It is dry and persistent, otherwise exceptional. In fairness to this bottling, it was only bottled the day before being seen--but since it was hand bottled just to show it to me, said Alvaro van Zeller, it was fine to present. 	"Violets, roses, spices, and candied dark fruits. ...emanate from the glass of the murky black/purple colored 2003 Graham Vintage Port. After four days of air, this wine's aromatics sweetened further, displaying jammy blackberry and blueberry scents. Bold, full-bodied, and expansive, the Graham benefited the most from extensive contact with air of all the 2003s tasted for this report. This opulently jammy wine assaults the palate with powerful yet soft layers of oily, candied red fruits as well as notes of tar and hints of mocha. A highly concentrated effort, it is creamy textured, suave, and reveals an admirably long finish filled with additional layers of dark fruits intermingled with spices." 81945	2002 Smith Woodhouse Late Bottled Vintage	$29.99	N/A	N/A
	"The 2002 Late Bottled Vintage Port is unfiltered field blend and was bottled in 2006 with a real cork, although dried out and hard to remove without crumbling on the bottles received. It comes in at 103 grams per liter of residual sugar. Given the cork circumstances, I will leave a "?" at the end of the rating, just in the exercise of caution, but it certainly didn't give much evidence of notable oxidation or decay typical of cork failures. It showed quite well all things considered. That means, apart from the dried cork, it also came from a vintage that I have generally thought was the worst since I've begun studying Portugal in detail. It still opened with a nice rush of sweet fruit, although also a bit of lanolin underneath. It did seem a bit lacking in concentration, a touch thin as it aired, and the grip on the finish was modest. There wasn't much left in the way of backbone, but it was capable of waking up with aeration and seemed livelier in time. Other than a slightly eccentric nuance in the background, that touch of lanolin, it still tasted great and even had a certain freshness to it. Overall, though, I'd still suggest drinking this up over the next few years, however long it theoretically holds." - Mark Squires, eRobertParker.com #217, Feb 2015 Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 87 pts - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 87pts

	"The 2011 Taylor's Vintage 2011 has a multifaceted, Pandora's Box of a nose that is mercurial in the glass: cassis at first before blackberry and raspberry politely ask it to move aside, followed by wilted rose petals and Dorset plum. Returning after one 45 minutes that nose has shut up shop. The palate is sweet and sensual on the entry, plush and opulent, with copious black cherries, boysenberry and cassis fruit, curiously more reminiscent of Fonseca! It just glides across the palate with a mouth-coating, glycerine-tinged finish that has a wonderful lightness of touch, demonstrating how Vintage Port is so much more accessible in its youth nowadays. 77904	Sandeman 40 Year Old Tawny Port	$165.00	N/A	N/A
	"An intense, deeply flavored Porto Tawny 40 Years Old, with a massive bouquet suggesting vanilla, oak and honey, and a mouthful of very complex flavors of dried fruits, spices, and nuts. As the wine unfolds smoothly and develops in the mouth, one discovers a superb balance of wood ageing and vibrancy, characteristic of Sandeman Tawny Portos." Reviewed by: Producer

82271	2000 Graham's Vintage Port	$54.99	N/A	N/A
	This wine was named #9 on Wine Spectator's Top 100 Wines of 2003. "Smells like freshly picked orchids, with loads of ripe, clean fruit. Full-bodied, medium sweet and very powerful and racy. It lasts for minutes on your palate. Yet there's a balance and class to this young Vintage Port. This is the greatest glass of Graham I have ever tasted, young or old. Collectible." - James Suckling, May 15, 2003 Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 98 pts - Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 98pts

53286	La Guita Manzanilla Sherry	$14.99	N/A	N/A
	"This round white has texture and grip, with rich and focused flavors of apple, almond, green olive and brine. Offers plenty of fruit, but remains grounded thanks to the briny character. Expressive and balanced." Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 92 pts - Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 92pts
940970	Blandy's Bual 10 Year Old	$32.99	N/A	N/A
	"Clear, amber colour with tinges of gold on the rim. Superbly complex. Great intensity, revealing a bouquet of dried fruits such as figs and prunes, with notes of almonds and oak and subtle hints of toffee and vanilla spice. Sumptuous. Medium sweet and very smooth with a superb balance of coffee and fruit flavours with a clean and sharp acidity. Lovely persistent aftertaste." Reviewed by: Producer

940971	Blandy's Verdelho 10 Year Old	$32.99	N/A	N/A
	"Clear and bright topaz colour, with a golden hue right up to the rim. Fresh and fragrant bouquet of dried fruits and spice with luxurious warm orangey aromas. Medium dry and full-bodied. Concentrated and fresh with a pleasant zesty bittersweet edge from a finally balanced acidity. Long lingering aftertaste of exotic fruits with spicy overtones." Reviewed by: Producer

73054	1983 Toro Albala Don Pedro Ximenez Gran Reserva	$34.99	N/A	N/A
	"The 1983 Don PX Gran Reserva has been aged in old oak barrels until bottled in 2012, and is several steps up in age and complexity. Here the dominant notes are tar, graphite, smoke, roasted coffee and dark chocolate. It's extremely concentrated, dense and sweet, ends very spicy with curry notes and stays in your mouth for minutes."
