"The 2012 Zoe White is a 60/40 Roditis-Moschofilero blend. In its first blush of youth, it shows good solidity for this level (relative to these grapes, of course) and nice persistence. Aromatic, pure and friendly, it is also fruity and flavorful. It is well balanced, but with some notable crispness on the back end to give it an invigorating quality. I appreciated its ability to come into balance, become more transparent and show some finesse as it aired out. Mostly, it just tasted great, making it a perfect picnic wine or porch sipper, while maintaining its refreshing demeanor." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 87pts

On the palate it has medium body, moderate acidity with smooth tannins, all in harmony. The aftertaste is moderate with a note of gentle anise seed." - Reviewed by: Producer

57613	Malamatina Retsina	$4.99	N/A	N/A

"Retsina Malamatina is produced exclusively from the Greek grape varieties of Savatiano and Rhoditis. Vinification follows the white wine-making method under controlled temperatures and by selecting only the “mosto yema” or “flower must” from the grapes to achieve the wine’s unique colour, aroma, flavor and quality. The addition of a small amount of pine resin during fermentation provides the characteristic retsina flavor, while at the same time allowing the fruity aromas of these varietals to emerge. By adding the beneficial properties of resin known since ancient times, the achieved result is a unique wine with a completely Greek identity." - Reviewed by: Producer

57998	2012 Skouras Zoe Rose	$9.99	N/A	N/A

"A light, easygoing pink coming in at 12.5% alcohol, this emphasizes flavor and fruit, although the acidity is pretty good. It is a consistent performer in its style, but I do love how it shows when very young. With a rather tasty, raspberry tinge at this early stage in its life, it will likely make some swoon with delight, but the excellent acidity keeps it from being cloying. This won’t win points for power or complexity, but it should make a refreshing summer drink. The exuberant fruit will calm down a bit, but many will prefer its juicy, flavor-laced finish just as it is." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 87pts
