

GSE	DESCRIPTION	REG. PRICE	SALE PRICE	DISCOUNT %
27751	1999 Mastroberardino Radici Taurasi Riserva	$49.99	N/A	N/A
	"The 1999 Taurasi Radici Riserva is simply beautiful. Sweet dried cherries, licorice, menthol and spices waft from the glass. Made in an elegant style, this complex Riserva shows some of the slightly advanced and oxidized flavors one might reasonably expect from 10 year-old wine, yet the balance is utterly compelling. The finish is long, sweet and ethereal, as pretty suggestions of mint come back to frame the wine beautifully." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 93pts
54299	2005 Terredora Pago dei Fusi Taurasi	$45.99	$39.99*	13%
53532	2007 Mastroberardino Taurasi Radici	$54.99	$49.99*	9%
	"The 2007 Taurasi Radici boasts stunning richness, depth and power, yet remains relatively accessible and approachable for such a young Taurasi. Juicy dark cherries, cinnamon, plums, spices, incense, tobacco and a myriad of aromas and flavors saturate the palate as this big, textured wine opens up in the glass. Despite its considerable richness and plushness, the 2007 never loses its classical sense of structure. If that combination sounds appealing, believe me, it is. This is a flat-out stunner from Mastroberardino. Best of all, it will drink beautifully pretty much right out of the gate." - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 94pts
74031	2008 Mastroberardino Taurasi Radici	$54.99	$49.99*	9%
	"Good deep red-ruby. Musky aromas of red cherry, flinty redcurrant and shoe polish. Juicy, spicy and bright, with firm acidity giving definition and lift to the soil-driven flavors of redcurrant, black cherry and cocoa powder. Very fresh and precise aglianico, with lingering notes of tar and cherry and smooth, rising tannins. Boasts superb potential." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 92pts
73691	2009 Montevertrano	$69.99	$64.99*	7%
	"The 2009 Montevertrano is quite possibly the most accessible young vintage of this wine I have ever tasted. I am accustomed to Montevertranos that are tight and austere, but not in 2009. In 2009 Montevertrano is open and radiant, with layers of dark fruit and a polished, well-articulated finish. The 2009 is likely to be an early drinker, but that doesn't necessarily mean the wine will age quickly. A complete vertical tasted last year and published in Issue 190 found the wines in great shape, including all of the earliest vintages. Montevertrano is approximately 60% Cabernet Sauvignon, 30% Merlot and 10% Aglianico that spent 12-14 months in French oak, 50% new. It remains a benchmark in southern Italian oenology." - Reviewed by: Vinous - 92pts			