	"Offers a sleek, sinewy feel, with juniper and bay leaf notes running along the edges of the steeped plum, dried currant and bitter cherry core. A tobacco and iron streak courses through the finish. Delivers an old-school feel." - Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 92pts

	"Deep, vivid ruby. High-pitched, mineral-accented aromas of cherry, black raspberry and fresh flowers. Offers an array of red and dark berry flavors that gain flesh and sweetness with air. Packs a serious punch but comes off as energetic, with no excess weight. Closes with resonating spiciness and sneaky, fine-grained tannins that fold smoothly into the sappy fruit. Jean-Louis noted that there is a bigger dose of Chave domain fruit than usual in this year's version of Offerus. Incidentally, I was also able to retaste the 2010 Cotes-du-Rhone Mon Coeur, which I reviewed last year, and it has gained definition and energy over the last year. As mentioned before, this is a wine that drinks way above its category and is a highly reliable bottling vintage in and vintage out." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 91pts

	"Tasted out of bottle and a smoking St.-Joseph that savvy readers need to seek out, the 2011 St.-Joseph (which was just bottled prior to this tasting) offers gorgeous richness and depth, especially in the vintage. Black currants, charcoal, mineral, bouquet garni and ample background meatiness all emerge from the glass, and this medium to full-bodied beauty has brilliant purity of fruit, a great texture and fine tannin that should allow it to evolve gracefully. It's a fantastic value that should not be missed!" - Reviewed by: The Wine Advocate - 93pts

	"Inky purple. Sexy aromas of candied dark berries, violet and Moroccan spices, with a bright mineral overtone. Lively and precise on the palate, which offers sweet dark berry flavors and gently chewy texture. Shows very good intensity on the finish, which clings with lingering minerality and spiciness. These vines are mostly in Mauves, according to Philippe Guigal." - Reviewed by: International Wine Cellar - 91pts

	"Bold, with dark blackberry, warm linzer torte and fresh cassis aromas and flavors pumping along, lined with briary but integrated grip and backed by a long, charcoal-studded finish. A very impressive display of power and depth, without sacrificing definition." - Reviewed by: Wine Spectator - 96pts

	"Made from old-vine Syrah from Mauves itself, in addition to the villages of Sarras and St Jean de Muzols, the Offerus gets better and better. Penetrating floral aromatics and a generous, energetic palate are complimented by a firm strand of mineral acidity and fine, sinewy tannins." Reviewed by: Simon Field, MW
