75539	2012 Layer Cake Sea of Stones Red Blend	$12.99	N/A	N/A
	"The Layer Cake Sea of Stones red blend is extremely dense and concentrated. Opaque purple, almost black in color, the aroma is full of ripe black fruit, grilled bread, pencil lead, wet stones, lavender, blueberry pie, and black cherry. On the palate there is layer upon layer of savory fruit, spice notes, espresso, and dark chocolate as well as rich, creamy texture. The aromas and flavors carry on long after the wine is gone from your mouth, the finish taunting you to have another sip." - Reviewed by: Producer

83958	2013 Linne Calodo Sticks and Stones	$89.99	N/A	N/A
	"Our premiere grenache blend utilizes fruit from unique blocks on our estate. Twenty-percent whole cluster fermentation and aged in concrete and 3000L French foudre. Grenache is great because it has wonderful acids that keep it refreshing. The inclusion of cinsault enhances the elegant, violet texture of the nose. Pairs well with wild-caught meats like boar and venison. Consume within the next 7 years to keep the fruit nice and fresh." - Reviewed by: Producer
81868	2011 Catena Zapata White Stones Chardonnay	$89.99	N/A	N/A
	"Bright full yellow. Ripe stone fruit aromas are lifted by lavender and pungent crushed stone nuances. Tightly coiled and sharply delineated, with superb saline depth of flavor leavened by pineapple acidity and crushed rock. Finishes classically dry, gripping and very long, with outstanding energy. Still a baby and likely to merit a higher rating as it approaches maturity." - Stephen Tanzer. Tasting date: January 2015 - Reviewed by: Vinous - 93pts

	"Good bright medium yellow. Very subdued nose hints at yellow fruits, ginger and sexy smoky, spicy oak. Broad and suave on entry, then limey, tight and youthfully imploded in the middle, showing less early texture and sweetness than the White Bones. Conveys a strong soil character but this wine from a chalkier parcel than the White Bones strikes me as less minerally today. Finishes very suave but without quite the grip of the Bones. I may be underrating this extremely young chardonnay." - Stephen Tanzer, March 2014 - Reviewed by: Vinous - 93pts
